Delegates Fill Hotels For Two-Day Meetings

Final plans for the regional congress of the National Federation of Catholic College Students, which is to meet here February 8-9, are rapidly nearing completion. More than 225 delegates are expected to attend. The Rev. Joseph Scheuer, c.pp.s., anticipating just such a crowd, has already reserved all the rooms available at both hotels, plus any that could be had in private homes.

The first plenary session will feature addresses relating to the general theme of the meeting. "Student Responsibility in Student Activities." Mr. Martin McLaughlin will address the assembly on student responsibility on the international level. Student responsibility on the national level will be handled by Mr. Pat O'Meare, National President of NFCCS. Miss Rosemary Kisken, of St. Mary's College will discuss student responsibility on the local level.

At the sectional meetings, Leonard Holland, of St. Joseph's, is chairman for the commission on the press. This is just one of the many commissions that will be discussed during the two-day gathering. All students are cordially invited to attend both the plenary and sectional meetings. They are asked to be sure to register whenever they attend.

Saturday evening a dance will be held in the field house, from 8:30 until 12:00 for all delegates. Also invited to the dance are any St. Joe men who attended the conferences and signed the register. As yet it is not definite how the music will be furnished. In all probability, though, it will be supplied by records.

The tentative date for the publication of the NFCCS paper has been set as January 30. Although not definite, this paper will probably be called Action.

Measure Offers Challenge

MEASURE, the literary quarterly, hit the campus this week. Its appearance is less an achievement than a reminder—a reminder that the winter issue of the magazine is even now due, and that there are two more issues to follow that.

A student project, MEASURE'S success depends on the reaction of the students to it. It should be an index—a measure—of the kind of work that is being done in every department. As every other literary magazine, it should have variety in the articles that appear. Short stories, familiar essays, one-act plays, and verse should be balanced by factual essays that show the caliber of the St. Joe student mind at work.

To plan for the future numbers of MEASURE, an open meeting will be held in classroom 102 from 7:30 to 8:30 Monday evening, January 20. Come to that meeting, and bring with you any bit of your own writing that you believe can be edited for printing in a subsequent issue of the literary journal.

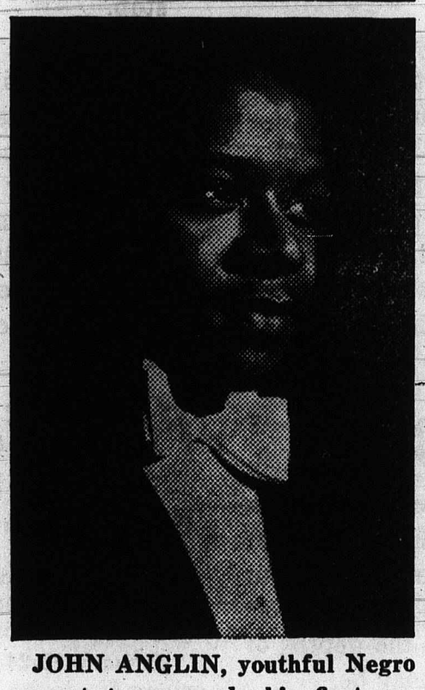
S. H. Ley, c.pp.s., Director of Publications.

Curtain Club Takes Leo Brady Comedy For February Show

Brother Orchid, a play in three acts by Leo Brady, has been selected by the Xavier Curtain Club for production in the second semester. Adapted for an all-male cast, the play will be under the direction of the Rev. Lawrence Heiman, c.pp.s. The final decision was announced at the meeting of the Curtain Club Sunday, Jan. 12. Preliminary tryouts were held in the afternoon.

At the meeting the radio play, Mr. Ginsburg by Arch ,Oberler, was presented under the direction of Donald Vogl. Richard Grever carried the leading role of Sam Ginsburg, and Kenneth Gates was co-starred as Dave Berkman.

On the agenda of the meeting was the final ratification of the new constitution. A carry-over of two previous meetings, the work was finally achieved to the satisfaction of all the members of the club.



JOHN ANGLIN, youthful Negro concert tenor, made his first appearance at the age of eight. Since that time he has made numerous tours throughout the Midwest, receiving ovations wherever he sang. He sings in Collegeville, February 13, on the Speckbaugh Memorial entertainment Series. Kelley Wyatt, who accompanies Anglin, is a recently discharged veteran. The two make a wonderful team. Wyatt plays solos with inspired performance.

Bob Souchon Weds Mary Janet Innis In Washington

The joys of the holiday season were multiplied for Robert Souchon on Dec. 28. On that day he and Mary Janet Innis were married in the Blessed Sacrament Chapel, of the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul, Indianapolis, Ind.

After a short honeymoon in the East, Bob returned to the campus to finish the semester. For the next semester he will attend Indiana University Extension, in Indianapolis, but will return to St. Joseph's in September to continue his work for a degree in economics. At present Bob is classified as a sophomore.

At the wedding reception, held at the Broadmoor Country Club, Seifert Hall was well represented by Jack Cangany, Charles Ball, Warren Freeman, and John Weaver. The happy couple will reside at R. R. 17, Box 236, Indianapolis 44, Ind.

Missa Recitata In Drexel Hall

A Missa Recitata, is being said in the chapel of Drexel Hall every morning at 6:30. The saying of this type of Mass, where the entire congregation participates vocally, was inaugurated January 13. All Drexel residents are urged to atend this Mass and receive the benefits they deserve as part of the lay priesthood.

Pamplets to be used by the students will be found in the pew just inside the chapel door. It is asked that they be placed there again at the conclusion of the Mass. Anyone wishing instruction in the Latin of the Mass, may contact the Rev. Joseph Scheuer, c.pp.s. Father Scheuer will hold short classes in the evenings, several times a week, for this purpose.

The saying of this type of Mass is not altogether new to St. Joe men. The various halls alternate weekly in attending it at the main chapel every Sunday at 9:30.

Families Welcome Births Of Two Tots Over Vacation Days

Students and faculty members returning to Collegeville following the Christmas holidays were met with the news that two St. Joe families observed the vacation period with births.

A son, Paul Edward, was born Dec. 22, 1946, to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fisher. The child is a namesake of the late Rev. Paul Speckbaugh, c.pp.s., former faculty member. Mr. Fisher, St. Joseph's News Bureau Director, has been a member of the faculty for the past eight years except for a period of three years and eight months spent in the army.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Vogt are the parents of a son, Michael Leon, born December 29, 1946, in Jasper County Hospital. The baby weighed seven pounds one-half ounce. Don, an economics major, is a junior.

Rome, Collegeville Similar; Many Roads Lead To Both

All roads at some time or another may have led to Rome, according to the ancient saying which was undoubtedly coined by the Chamber of Commerce and Auto Club of that ageless Italian city. But just one moment, please. Our own little town seems to be a fairly buzzing hub of activity come September when 500 or so students begin the trudge from home to Collegeville. Portal to portal in this situation would surely prove profitable for St. Joseph's legions.

With a book, clothes, and bedding in one hand, radio, tennis racket, golf clubs in the other, plus a record or two stuffed in his shirt hoping that roomie will have a player, St. Joe men light out from far and wide for this little bend in the River Iroquois. All are in search of "X", the unknown, whether it be in intermediate algebra or general metaphysics.

"Home", as far as any student in the college department is concerned, might be any place from New York to Nebraska, or from North Dakota to Puerto Rico. According to statistics issued from the office of the Rev. Cletus G. Kern, c.pp.s., registrar, fifteen states, including the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, are represented by the present college student body.

Of course, Indiana gallops in an easy first, with a representation of 212 students from 55 high schools, which averages a little less than 4 students per high school. Illinois places with 129 students from 44 high schools, which amounts to about 2¾ students per school. Ohio shows, with 2⅓ per high school, claiming 91 scholars from a total of 39 schools. Now, who has ever heard of a fraction going to college?

That Chicago has quite an influence upon the ways of St. Joe men is indicated by the fact that 75 of those among us are from the City of Wind proper. Fort Wayne runs an embarrassing second with 23, while 18 men are the gift of Indianapolis to Collegeville.

In all, of the 500 students now on the roster, 182 high schools are represented.

Teachers Discuss 'Being' In Toronto

Among the philosophers who attended the meeting of the American Catholic Philosophical Association held in Toronto, Ontario, were the Revs. Edwin Kaiser, c.pp.s., Edward Maziarz, c.pp.s., and Joseph Scheuer, c.pp.s., all of St. Joseph's. The meetings were held Dec. 27 and 28.

General theme of the meetings concerned the philosophy of "being." About 200 philosophers, and others interested in philosophy, were in attendance.

Presiding at a banquet given Dec. 27, Cardinal Macquigan of Toronto remarked in a humorous tone, as he welcomed the philosophers from the United States, that when these men passed the customs inspectors on entering Canada they had nothing to declare but their own genius.

College Students Plan National Organization

Representatives from more than 300 Colleges and Universities in the United States met at the University of Chicago, Chicago, Illinois, Dec. 28-30. The thought uppermost in the mind of each representative was the laying of a strong foundation for the contemplated National Student Organization. Jack Clifford attended as the delegate from St. Joseph's College.

At the meeting officers of the National Continuations Commitee who will direct plans for the national organization, were elected. They are: James Smith, University of Texas, president; Russell Austin, University of Chicago, vice-president; Clifford Wharton, Harvard University, secretary; and John Simons, Fordham University, treasurer.

Elect Executive Committee

A 33-man executive committee was elected and charged with the task of drawing up a constitution which will be presented to a constitutional convention of delegates to be held this summer. Thirty of these members, elected on a regional basis, will serve as chairmen for regional committees which will promote interest in the contemplated National Student Organization. These thirty regions encompass the entire U. S.

Delegates voted to keep the Continuations Committee free from affiliation with the International Union of Students, which was set up in Prague last summer. A committee will study the IUS program and constitution and make a report upon which possible affiliations will be based.

Support for the national organization was offered by the representatives of twenty existing student organizations, including the National Federation of Catholic Students, and the Newman Club Federation.

Awaited Materials Arrive; Fieldhouse Work Resumes

After many months of delay caused by shortages of materials, the completion of the improvements in the fieldhouse is now in sight. The contractors have promised that progress will have advanced far enough to allow varsity games there by the 24th of this month. Everything should be finished by the first of next semester.

The main floor has been sanded and refinished, but the intramural floors will not be done till after all the construction work is completed.

The scoreboard has been renovated and will be changed to a new position at the end of the main floor. All of the new baskets and square backboards have arrived; they will replace the old fan-shaped ones.

Cafeteria Gets Floored

Tile floor for the dining rooms and corridor leading to them arrived during the holidays. Workmen began to lay the tile last Monday morning. By Tuesday evening they had completed the task in the Community refectory. At this rate of progress, all the tile should be in place within ten days. This work will complete all of the improvements begun there last June.

If Heart Holds God, Tongue Will Hold Self

You don't punctuate every sentence with your friend's name, whether the punctuation be internal or external. You don't use his name when you are lost for something else to say, or you can't think of something else o say, or you can't think of anything worse to say. You don't do it because it is not proper form, but more because you respect his name and that for which it stands.

In fact, it would be a direct insult to him. If momentarily you were foolish enough to do so, you would be lost to repair the damage that you had caused to your friendship. If you lost your mind and did so continually, your relation would be severed. You would feel yourself drawing slowly away from him.

What about God? Why are you so careless about the Name of your best friend? If you are so careful about your personal friends, does reason demand that you go against your closest friend in retaliation?

Perhaps you can be a little more positive of the friendship that you hold with God, but you still can not abuse it. No amount of reflection on the condition will ever convince you that you are in the right. Can you ever expect to come close to One whom you love and who loves you by frequent insults to Him?

You may have the habit; it is not the mental inclination surely, but the decreased power of resistance. It became a habit because you never troubled to think of something else to say. Others did it and you fell right in line with them, and you formed the habit of insulting God. Humanly speaking, you may fall back on the excuses of environment, conditions, people, and any others you might wish to offer.

But now stop to think for a moment. Are your present environment, conditions, and fellow students really conducive to the habit? It would seem that you no longer have an excuse, but more of a reason to stop.

If you can not stop under your own power, try praying a little harder during this month. January is dedicated by the Church to the holy name of God. With the help of prayer your earnest effort will become a reality. It isn't too tremendous a job to practice a little self-control over something you don't want in the first place, and with the same effort to show God your love for Him.

What Do You Think?

Here Are Views Of A Few

In view of the recent resignation of James Byrnes as secretary of state, the most important news topic of the day concerns that vital cabinet post and the man who has been selected to fill it, General George Marshall. No one can question the general's capabilities as a militarist. However, past history shows that militarists left much to be desired in high diplomatic posts. It should be remembered, also, that Marshall is next in line for the presidency should anything happen to Truman. Considering the above circumstances, we asked this question: "Do you think that the appointment of General Marshall is a wise one?"

say for Marshall. "His quality of leadership is shown immediately by his rank as a five-star general and former chief of staff. Under this leadership things should get done during his administration. The condition of present-day affairs demands that a strong militarist should hold the position."

On the other hand, John Hunt, Peoria, Ill., senior, follows this opinion. "I don't think he is the man for the job. He has shown by his past record that he is not too forceful, and an attitude of this kind might incline him toward a policy of appeasement in the Russian situation."

Opinions seem to be fairly evenly divided now. But all the world will have an eye on the general to see just who is correct.

Don Halpin, freshman pre-engineer from Toledo, thinks Marshall will fill the bill. "Marshall is best qualified for the position," he said. "He should know the ropes even more so now since the time that he spent in China."

John O'brien, Chicago freshman, thinks that with the appointment of Marshall we shall have a government too militaristic for the administration of the needs of a country at peace.

"From his past record General Marshall has proved himself to be honest in his dealings." This was issued by Paul Tanner, frosh premed from Owensboro, Ky. He added, "Our chief problem at the moment is Russia. It will take a militarist to handle a militaristic country most effectively."

Tony Lambo, another frosh premed from Elkhart, Ind., had this to

No Make, No Break

Now that the nap and newness of the New Year have been worn off, and the more normal of us foolish mortals have already forgotten about the resolutions which we never made at all, most of us have settled back again into the depths of our old rut, or groove, as the case may be.

Speaking of resolutions, they are, in a way, good things. Congress has for years employed them to advantage, sometimes to a doubtful one, however. When we make a New Year's resolution, we probably feel stronger and more proud of ourselves for each day that the resolve remains intact. But the higher we get the farther we drop, and when we finally succumb, say, sometime in the middle of February if we persevere that far in our original intentions, the demoralizing effect can become quite great. In bearing this out, use the old instance of an athletic team losing a contest after maintaining a long, undefeated string.

In resolving to quit, say, the habit of smoking, the maintenance of resolutions might prove a little more successful if we could sort of sidle into them gradually, like shuffling easily and unnoticed out of Church when it's crowded. But that is not to be, for a new year just doesn't come in easily and unnoticed. In fact, we do to a new year what a cat does to a catnip mouse: lie stalking, waiting breathlessly for the opportune moment. It arrives. We pounce upon it, yelling, screaming. And there your resolution is begun with an embarrassing suddeness. From then, you're on your own.

It is characteristic of human nature to want to mull it over in the mind, perhaps let it go till tomorrow, before setting out to do or to not do, something tainted with disagreeableness. With the thought in mind that haste makes waste, the resolver is aware of the mental "bends" to which he may be susceptible if he dives in too deep and too fast. As a natural consequence, he treads stealthily upon such thin ice.

If you happen to be a character possessive of a gigantic determination and can take a quick resolution without suffering after-effects, more is the power to you. But when you do fall, have a care that it does not bother you to the extent that you lose faith in yourself in particular and human nature in general.

Following The Flickers

Dick Causland

Daughter—A new comedy boasting an all-star cast which includes Gail Russell, Claire Trevor, Ann Dvorak, and Adolphe Menjou. Bille Burke in another of her famous fluttery, female roles has several good scenes. Unobjectionable for adults.

January 23-24—Mr. Ace—George Raft, one of the many Mr. tough guys, brings another of his ganster-gambler pictures to the screen. Also tagging along with George are fourteen "yeggs" you'll recognize if you follow this type of picture. Sylvia Sidney co-stars with him. Objectionable in part.

PALACE THEATRE—January 19-21—Angel On My Shoulder—If you are looking for something out of the ordinary, be sure to see this. Claude Rains, Anne Baxter, and Paul Muni share the lead in this comedy. Claude portrays the devil himself, and in one scene has to walk through the roaring flames of hades to get himself and Muni back to the earth. Unobjectionable for adults.

January 24-25—Terror Trail—Charles Starrett, better known to the film followers as the Durango Kid, roars into action once again to save the town from the villain. He is aided in his heroic actions by his old stand-by, Smiley Burnette. This time the culprit masquerades as the owner of the town's saloon. He pits the cattlemen against the sheepherders in what he hopes will end up as a range war. The Durango Kid spoils all these plans, but not before a blazing gun battle almost melts the film. No decency rating available.

CHRISTIAN BOOKS

The Saturday Review of Literature recently stated that the three Doubleday book clubs have over two and a half million members. Our oldest Catholic book club borders around the two thousand mark.

During the last decade our Catholic populace has been bickering for more Catholic books, and within this same decade there has been a tremendous influx in all forms of Catholic writing. Yet, take this Catholic book club for example, are our Catholics following up their appeal?

The purpose of a book club is the selection of only the best from recent publications. It seems that if our Catholics were really sincere our Catholic book clubs would grow tremendously. Yet their numbers remain practically constant.

Several recent publications that can be found on our library's shelves are:

Less Than The Angels, by Roger B. Dooley
Eve Of The Reformation, by Cardinal Gasquet
Gailhac Of Beziers, by Helene Magaret
The Sacred Scimitar, by Mabel Farnum
The Green Continent, edited by German Arciniegas

Pope Pius once said: "The youth is busy forming his soul. The man is occupied in striving with the strength which God has bestowed upon him. But the old man devotes himself to bearing witness to his purity of heart by the forgiveness which he has for all those who have done him ill."

It has been my experience that debts mount up like sins—when you take stock of them, you always find more than you expected.

CAMPUS CAPERS

With Christmas a thing of the dim, glorious (to some of us) past, and New Years still a whole year away, "ye hallowed halls" once again are assuming the proportions of a boneyard as boneheads bone for the onrushing final pests . . . pardon . . . tests.

Practicing such slogans as "Pass that course" and "These are the ones that count", one and all have begun, or so they said they would before Christmas, to assimilate hot dope from the tomes in an effort to raise that index. Then there are those of us who have no index. Well, fellows, you were nice company while you were here, anyway.

Maybe this year's freshman class will be around for the big improvements. It seems that bigger and better things are about to happen to the Monon Railroad. When that rattler of the future hits 100 miles per, I'm afraid St. Joe's Chicago customers will have to change at Indianapolis for Rensselaer. Rumor has it that in the near future, while the Monon is still the old Monon we all know and love, the company is going to run sleeper service between Chi and here. That late post-Christmas trip down must have been the final weed which fractured Mr. Monon's back.

We haven't as yet compiled all the data regarding just how many of the boys issued cracked ice as Christmas presents to their girls. But we have proof positive that a few of them went down for the count. Then, as always, there is that select group which encountered difficulties a la femme over the vacation. Disillusioned? Hold on till spring. The greenery and birds will change things around.

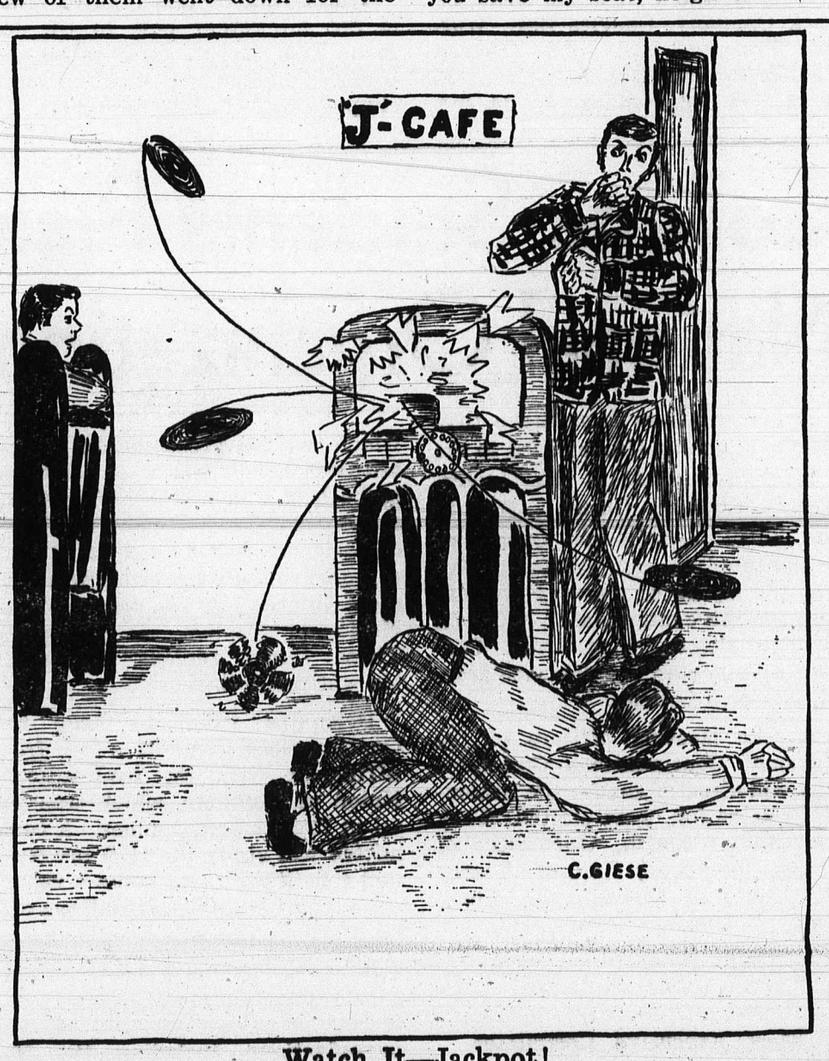
I hear tell that the Czar was more than put out when he didn't get a chance to play the billiard champ in the Raleigh Club last week. The ace must have heard of Czar's ability with the cue and cushions and didn't want to take any chances. We who know what a good game Roy talks would be forced to put our dough on him, of course.

There has been a lot of improvement in the porcelain room of the Science House. With those new mirrors and lights, the boys from the dorm "down there" are well on their way to sharpdom. Civilization is at last picking up even in that faraway outpost.

Western Union is beating a path to the door of Meiners and Wibblesman, with both of them on the receiving end in the same day. It makes it short and sweet that way, and I guess it won't do much good to talk back to a messenger boy.

Apparently the academy plans to go out in a blaze of glory. The Collegvillains did all right in their cage tourney. Don Kasperan is sporting his own trophy just over his right eye. And that was his whistling eye, too.

So I suppose I'll go out, too. Will you save my seat, neighbor?



Watch It—Jackpot!

Cubs Clinch Valley Tourney

Collier Quips

By Joe Collier

In a premature intramural basketball game held in the fieldhouse a short time ago, a team composed of ex-professional(?) stars shadowed a stalwart group of Seiferites.

Surprisingly enough, all post-game awards were given to members of the losing quintet. Vince Guckien was rated the most outstanding; the Czar the most loquacious; Tiger McGrath, the most aggressive, although lack of substitutes kept him on the floor most of the game; and Yours Truly the most tired.

Some people are still talking about the nicely executed block Don Kasperan, Academy netman, threw in the middle of the foul circle, permitting one of his teammates to scamper across for a field goal. Some lucky fan has his helmet for a souvenir.

The Rev. Edward Roof, c.pp.s., athletic director, has announced a change and an addition to the basketball schedule this past week. Originally scheduled for Jan. 21 at Davenport, Ia., the St. Ambrose game will be held here Jan. 24. Feb. 12 will see the Pumas traveling to Indianapolis for a game with the Greyhounds representing Indiana Central.

Since all material has been received for the completion of the fieldhouse, the contractors are making it look like the proverbial beehive of activity.

Hugh Davey will testify to the fact that Mr. Mosconi was a very worthy opponent in their recent billiards match.

Illini's trouncing defeat of highly touted U.C.L.A. in the Rose Bowl classic should make midwestern partisans proud.

We are told that Ed McElroy, former Academy inmate, has a fifteen-minute sports broadcast on a Hammond station.

It looks as if Al Parris' next attempt at bribery will have to be with a prison guard on the listening end.

Keglers Elect Davey To Guide New Loop

Under the supervision of the Rev. Edward Roof, c.pp.s., athletic director, an intramural bowling league is being formed on the campus.

At a meeting held January 10, Hugh Davey, senior from Frankfort, Ind., was elected president of the league. Bill Ciminelli, of Rochester, N. Y., was elected vice-president; Jack Ryan, of Chicago, and Joe Collier, of Anderson, Ind., assumed the duties of secretary-treasurer and assistant secretary-treasurer, respectively. Rules and regulations for the league were also drawn up at this meeting.

It is intended to form an eight-team league, the teams being chosen by the officers from the 40 or more men who have decided to participate. The matches, which will begin after the close of the first semester, will be bowled on the Star Bowling Alleys in Rensselaer. Prizes will be awarded the team which emerges at the top of the loop.

President Davey stated that if enough interest is created by this league and more students wish to participate, a second league will be formed later.

Huntington, Hot, Good Tames St. Joe, 71-53 In First Local Game

Returning to action last Monday night after a two-week holiday, St. Joseph's Puma basketeers fell before the fast-moving, sharp-shooting Huntington College quintet 71-53.

The Huntington boys, who seemed to be able to hit from all corners of the court, pulled into a 13-1 lead before the Pumas could manage a single field goal. Several times during the first half the St. Joe cagers pulled within six points of their foes but at the intermission they trailed 33-21.

As the second half got under way the Pumas began creeping up; but when they had again cut the Huntington lead to six points, four quick buckets by their speedy foes stopped them cold. Thereafter the St. Joe men were never in the ball game.

Bill Krodel with 20 and Chicago Dick Collins with 16 set the pace for the Pumas. Schoeff dumped in 18 for Huntington, and teammate Hornaday connected for 17.

In a preliminary encounter the St. Joe Academy five dropped a 44-41 decision to Brook. The loss, their third of the current season, was the second at the hands of Brook. The contest was close all the way. Except for the early stages of the game and a brief moment during the third period, the Brook outfit never relinquished the lead.

RAY PATTERSON

Like the other members of the starting five, Ray is a freshman and plays a lot of basketball for a little man. Down in southern Indiana where basketball is a household word, Ray captained his high school team at Loogootee. He's got the speed and the spirit; the experience will come with time.

Cantieri Sinks 44 as Mates Take Wheatfield, Tefft, Pierre in Stride

Playing superb basketball throughout, St. Joseph's improving Academy cagers captured their second consecutive Kankakee Valley Tournament title by decisively trouncing Wheatfield, Tefft, and San Pierre over the weekend of January 9, 10, and 11. The victories were the Cubs' third, fourth, and fifth in succession; they bring their season record to six victories in eight games.

Wheatfield fell before the Cubs' power on January 9 as Al Cantieri, who was the tourney's high scorer, and John Raster, with 15 and 10 points, respectively, paced St. Joe to an easy 44-21 victory. After a very slow first period the Cubs began piling up points to walk away with the contest.

On the afternoon of January 11 Jerry Diver paired with Cantieri to lead the Cubs to a 41-25 decision over Tefft. This encounter, just as the preceding one, was close only during the initial quarter. A strong second period by the St. Joe quintet put the game on ice. Cantieri dumped in 13 while Diver netted 11.

San Pierre and the Scharfmen met the night of January 11 with the Cubs emerging with the title on the long end of a 49-33 count. Although the Academy five didn't have as easy a time in this fray as they did in the other two, they were at no time in real danger.

The Cubs led at halftime 25-17 and widened this lead steadily during the final two stanzas. Al Cantieri and Bennesh, San Pierre's pivot man, both meshed 16 points to share top honors for the evening. Jerry Diver and John Raster aided Cantieri by hitting for 12 and 11 counters.

Tough Week Ahead; Pumas Meet Knights, Loras, St. Ambrose

St. Joseph's Puma courtmen, back to work after a two-week Christmas vacation, will now attempt to improve upon their 2-5 pre-holiday record. After swinging back into action in a return game with Huntington last Monday night, the Pumas are now preparing to leave the confines of Collegeville on their only road trip of the campaign.

St. Joe will meet St. Norbert Jan. 18 at West De Pere, Wisc., and on Jan. 20 will engage the Loras College quintet in Dubuque, Iowa. The Puma cagers will then return home to play host to St. Ambrose and Indiana State's Sycamores on the successive nights of January 24 and 25.

The contest with St. Ambrose was originally scheduled to be played on Jan. 21 in Davenport as part of the road trip. Indiana State defeated the Pumas 54-42 in a previous encounter at Terre Haute earlier in the season.

Cue Pro Gives Show For Profs, Students

Billiard and pool addicts of St. Joe, students and faculty members alike, crowded into the Raleigh Club on the afternoon of Jan. 10 to witness an exhibition of trick shooting by Willie Mosconi, the world's professional pocket billiards champion. Mosconi, touring this area for the Brunswick Billiard Supply Company, pleased his audience no end with his uncanny shots.

His prime purpose in appearing here was to promote an inter-collegiate billiards tournament which is being sponsored by the Brunswick Company. According to Mosconi each school is to hold its own tourney, the winner of which will represent the school in the national meet. Complete details, which are to be mailed out in the near future, are not as yet available, although it is known that the national tournament will begin on or near the twenty-sixth of February.

Ceiling, Cases Go Up As Enlarged Library Nears Completion

When students returned from the Christmas holidays, they at once observed the progress that had been made in the library during their absence. One of the two conference rooms is now open. Instructors began to use this at once to guide their students in research work.

Until the furnishings for the carrells in the stacks arrive, the microfilm room is being used for typing. Typing desks and chairs are available; students must bring their own typewriter with them to take advantage of this service.

Part of the new metal stacks, which arrived during the holidays, were assembled during the last few days. Acoustical ceiling for the large reading room and the space over the charging desk and the area adjoining it is on hand and is being installed.

Tile floor for this same area was shipped in December. As soon as the consignment comes in workmen will come to lay the floor. The painters have finished decorating all of the walls. No forecast can be made as to the time when all of the work will be finished.

Publications Move Soon; New Home Progresses

Stuff, the campus weekly, will soon be in its new office. The carpenters have completed their work, and the floor is being sanded for staining. Painters will then need a few days to decorate. At the same time that the staff of Stuff moves from Gasper, the staffs of Measure and Phase will be able to occupy their new editorial rooms.

These rooms are on the second floor of the old power plant. An additional room for the mailing equipment and files and another for the mailing proper are also located there.

To handle the publications when they come from the printer for mailing and go to the post office after mailing, an elevator shaft has been installed. The elevator has not been delivered as yet.

Downstairs, where provision is being made for the post office, the business and industry department, advertising, and alumni work, the carpenters have also completed their work. A day or two of plastering remains to be done, and tile floor must be laid before this space can be occupied.

Photogs Complete Students' Snapping

Photographers from the Tower Studio, Indianapolis, were on the campus last week to complete taking pictures of students and faculty members for Phase, the college yearbook.

Individual pictures of seniors and freshmen were taken before the Christmas holidays. Those taken recently were informal group pictures of sophomores and juniors; four students were represented in each shot.

Other work, under the hand of George Ellspermann, Phase editor, is progressing. However, it is hoped that an early settlement of a strike at the Indianapolis Engraving Co. will be effected in order to prevent needless delay in the publishing of the yearbook.

Dwenger Raises $727

A recent survey showed that this year financial aid given to the missions by the Dwenger Mission Unit totals $727. The Main recipients were Community missioners of the Austrian Province in South America, Precious Blood Sisters in the western missions, Franciscan Fathers at the mission of San Luis Rey, Calif., and the Family Rosary Campaign sponsored by the Rev. Patrick Peyton, c.s.c.

Additional work of the Unit for the Family Rosary resulted in the repair of 750 rosaries. Another drive is being made at present to complete another collection of 150 rosaries.

(Mr. Cosgrove)

Any student who has a conflict in the examination schedule must report the fact to the Dean's Office without delay.

Rev. Walter Pax, c.pp.s., Dean of the College.

Hoctor Explains Loran

At the regular business meeting of Albertus Magnus Society, January 6, plans for the coming semester were discussed. The highlight of the meeting was Arthur Hoctor's talk on LORAN. At the next meeting Donald Smith will present a paper on the origin and uses of glycerin.

Med Aspirants Take Comprehensive Test

Nine St. Joe men took the Association of American Medical Colleges professional aptitude test Jan. 11. This is the official pre-admission test of the American Medical Association. For this year at least, it replaces the Moss medical aptitude test.

This examination lasted for five and one-half hours. According to some of the men who subjected themselves to it, it was very comprehensive. No personal report will be sent to the applicants. However, the results will be sent to three colleges of medicine of the applicants' choosing.

New Moderator Named

It has been announced by the Committee on Student Organizations and Entertainments that the Rev. Boniface R. Dreiling, c.pp.s., assistant professor of physics, has been appointed moderator of the Raleigh Smoking Club.
